The Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine & Research Institute in Roanoke, VA, is experiencing exponential growth in clinical service, research, and academics. Currently there are openings for Adult Psychiatrists to join the faculty of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine. The training program in general psychiatry has 34 residents and there are fellowships in child and geriatric psychiatry. Faculty positions in psychiatry are associated with Carilion Roanoke Memorial Hospital, a 700-bed teaching/tertiary referral center with several adult and child/adolescent inpatient psychiatric units, a psychiatric Consult-Liaison service, emergency psychiatric services, and partnerships with several community mental health organizations. Responsibilities include direct clinical services, teaching medical students, supervising residents and fellows in psychiatry and telepsychiatry, integrating research with clinical practice, and expanding population health initiatives. There are opportunities for research collaboration with world-renowned neuroscientists at the Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine and Research Institute. With the growth of the Virginia Tech Neurosciences Program and the doubling of research space, faculty will have the opportunity to be an integral part of future research.

The Roanoke Valley is a metro area of 300,000 located in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Consistently rated among the “best places to live” in the nation, Roanoke enjoys a low cost of living, inexpensive real estate, and abundant outdoor activities in an exceptional setting along the Blue Ridge Parkway, Appalachian Trail, Smith Mountain Lake, and surrounding areas. We are also only a few hours driving distance from the Atlantic Ocean beaches and major metropolitan areas.

Aspects of this position include:

- Large primary care and specialty referral base of 650+ physicians
- Teaching at Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine
- 23+ onsite Graduate Medical Education programs
