Third Annual
Jarman Environmental Law Fellowship

The Environmental Law Program is delighted to announce the third annual Jarman Environmental Law Fellowship, named after ELP founder, WSRSL Professor, and Associate Dean M. Casey Leigh (Jarman). The fellowship honors her twenty-four years of service to the environmental community. The fellowship is made possible by generous ELP alumni and friends who started the UH Foundation Jarman Endowment in 2005. The endowment’s goal is to support students who seek career development opportunities in the public interest or government sectors of environmental law.

The Fellowship award for a current 1L (full or part-time) student for Summer 2011 is $3,000 for 8-weeks of summer employment at a Hawai‘i public interest organization or government agency. Applicants should have a strong record of, and commitment to, contributing to the environmental community through public service. Preference is given to students seeking the Environmental Law Certificate.

The selected student must: (1) demonstrate exemplary performance during the Fellowship; (2) write a self-evaluation report at the end of the summer, (3) write a story for the ELP web site; and (4) be responsible for organizing one ELP Colloquium, community outreach meeting, or service trip next year related to the student’s summer work.

How to apply: send a cover letter stating your qualifications for the fellowship (explaining how it furthers your career goals) and a current resume with three professional/law school references, by email, no later than April 1, 2011 to Prof. Denise Antolini (antolini@hawaii.edu). State in your application whether you have already secured a summer position or if you need assistance with placement. ELP will assist students in finding an appropriate position. For ideas on public interest and government opportunities, see the 2010 Hawai‘i Environmental Law Careers Directory, available on the ELP web site (www.hawaii.edu/elp). The selection committee consists of ELP professors, the 2009 Jarman Fellow Stewart Yerton, and 2010 Jarman Fellow Drew Porter.

Please join us in celebrating the third summer of the Jarman Fellowship. All WSRSL 1Ls welcome to apply!
